
In accordance with the EU General Data Protection Regulation, persons have the right to object to processing of their card transaction data to generate anonymous statistics about private consumption. Individual card transactions or cards can never be identified from the statistics. If you still want to exercise your right to object to the processing of this information as part of the analysis, you are able to opt out with this form.

In this form, you should specify the cards to be excluded from these analyses. You can submit the form to Nordea through the messaging service in the Internetbank after authenticating yourself. Please select "Cards" as the topic from the menu of the new message.

Your cards will be excluded within 7 days from the database and subsequently from any future processing for the purposes of private consumption statistics. If any additional information is required, we will reach out.

Contact details

Last and first names	Personal identity number
----------------------	--------------------------

Card numbers to be excluded from analyses (16 digits)

Place	Date
-------	------